HEADLINE: Anti-Fraud Training Service Announced by First Consulting for Insurers and Life Settlement Companies

BODY: First Consulting & Administration, Inc. is committed to helping insurance companies with state anti-fraud training requirements for underwriters, call center personnel, claims handlers and other integral anti-fraud personnel. Training is now available for companies selling life and annuity, health and accident, as well as life settlement companies, all of which are held to training standards by most state regulators. Training for property-casualty insurers will be available in the second quarter of 2015.

Francine Fetyko, President, says "At the request of companies for some new and innovative anti-fraud training we are using our webinar technology and online training software to offer companies anti-fraud training on your desktop PCs or laptops. Companies can implement customized annual anti-fraud training containing real examples of fraud convictions and cases to keep their personnel current on the latest red flags emerging across the industry."

The First Consulting anti-fraud training will cover identifying and recognizing red flags for many types of insurance fraud; tips for identifying, documenting and referring incidents of suspected insurance fraud to the state regulatory departments or law enforcement; emerging insurance fraud trends; current fraud cases in the news; and current fraud cases in the courts.

First Consulting's Senior Consultant, Carol Stern, FLMI, AIRC, ACS, is an Operational Compliance, Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) and Corporate Governance expert for the ERM/ORSA consulting practice and will provide content for the anti-fraud training. "Carol has a chief compliance officer's experience developing and delivering fraud training. With 30 years in the insurance industry, she has a deep understanding of the types of insurance fraud and how to train employees to help identify the red flags," says Fetyko.
